CERTIFICATE IN FINANCIAL PLANNING

WILL GERKEN
REAL ESTATE ENDOWED PROFESSOR OF FINANCE
AND DIRECTOR OF THE CERTIFICATE IN FINANCIAL PLANNING

A BEST KEPT SECRET…

Since 2019, the University of Kentucky has offered a CFP Board-registered certificate that satisfies the CFP coursework requirement.

The CFP, or Certified Financial Planner, designation is the most respected credential in financial planning and wealth management. Think of CFPs as trusted guides who help people navigate all of life's major financial decisions. And it's a career that comes with some amazing advantages:

- You get to make a real difference in people's lives, helping them achieve their dreams

- The work is incredibly flexible – you can set your own schedule. One day you meet with a soon-to-be retiree on the golf course. The next you might meet a young couple in a coffeeshop to discuss how to save for their first home.

- And yes, the compensation is excellent – the average CFP professional makes over $100,000 annually – and demand for qualified financial planners has never been higher

WHAT MAKES UK'S CFP PROGRAM UNIQUE

We're backed by the advantages of a flagship state university:

- Over 300 UK alumni currently hold the CFP designation

- More than 150 CFP professionals practice right here in the Lexington area

- You'll have access to in-person networking events with local professionals and be part of an in-person community where you can form study groups with classmates here on campus

- You can tap into UK's extensive alumni network across the country

Are you a current student pursuing a bachelor's degree? This certificate program has no additional tuition/fee cost for full-time, on-campus bachelor degree seeking students. Just go to MyUK and click the "Major Change/Add" to add this certificate. If you have 60 hours earned or in progress, you are automatically admitted.
